Since this writing includes several families with direct lineage representing ancestral marriages, many of the individual and/or families will be noted in more than one narrative and/or descendant outline with a page reference for family details.

Preface

By definition genealogy is an account of the descendants of a person, family, or group, that is the study of a family lineage. So is such research ever complete? I guess if one takes the narrow approach and only follows one branch of the family, it can be considered concluded after a series of generations. But I chose to follow the broader scope and considered the entire tree. So there will always be new ancestors to discover along with current generations to add.

This journey started with just the names of my grandparents. I am amazed at the path I've wandered and the family I've discovered especially without any specific road to follow. The family tree isn't complete. As with all research, it should not be interpreted as complete nor infallible and I apologize for any missing information, errors, misspellings, or inaccurate data. There are ancestors I may have overlooked and hints that I missed. I am grateful to have started this journey and discovered the determination, courage, and commitment of my ancestors to bring me to this point in time.

All early information presented in this writing from 1820 to 1910 is from the Sicily Civil Records for birth, marriage, and death including dates and comments from notes recorded on those records. This data may not be the same as that found in church records which may show dates earlier or later that the civil records. Any additional information that was uncovered will be noted in the narrative. The decision to maintain the civil records as the main source of information was two fold. First, I was able to attach each original civil document to the individual in my family tree, and second, it maintains consistency across all families whether immediate or non immediate. Also noted in the narrative will be any assumptions made for an individual or family.

As the story unfolds in the United States, documentation includes passenger ship manifests, US census data through to 1950, US marriage and birth records where available, naturalization petitions, military records for drafts and enlistments, Social Security records for name change and death, US public records, obituary notices from both newspapers and online, funeral memorial cards and online Find-A-Grave memorials. Early generations may include all or any of the above references and recollections from other family members. Recorded dates may also vary from document to document and, if relevant, will be noted. This information is most complete for the first six generations. Know that on-line information is constantly changing, whether it be additions, corrections, or updates. At this point in time only available and confirmed published information will be included along with information generously shared by cousins from their own family research. It's the later generations, where reliance for knowledge lies heavily on US public records, obituary notices from both newspapers and online, and shared information, that have the most gaps and missing information such as marriages, divorces, and children..

There are many twists and turns in this family, in fact too many to easily cross reference. So I've added the early generations to the Shared Family Tree on familysearch.org. This includes any information I had for the families of both spouses. In doing so, I was also able to link to additional families already on familysearch.org. For any cross referencing, the shared family tree will be available to search relationships.

Any comments, corrections, and/or additions are welcome. Contact me at FourFamilies@verizon.net.

Gesso, Sicily

Introduction

This writing is meant to be a compilation of all previous writing and includes all current updates.

DiPietro and Angemi are among the rarer surnames in Italy and Sicily. DiPietro evolved into DePietro in some communities. And the Angemi surname became Ingemi in many communities. Today the variation DePietro is found in only two communities in Northern Italy while DiPietro can be found in forty-three communities mostly in Northern Italy and Sicily. On the other hand, the surnames Angemi and Ingemi, which are found mostly in Sicily, can be traced to twenty-eight and twenty-seven communities respectively.

My ancestors can be traced back to the village of Gesso and surrounding Sicilian villages. The early DePietro and Angemi families originated from both Calvaruso, Sicily and Gesso, Sicily. Their descendants emigrated as families so there are several generations to portray. This defines families in terms of a family lineage rather that family relationships.

Geographically, the village of Calvaruso is now part of the municipality of Villafranca Tirrena. Calvaruso is about 1.5 miles from Villafranca Tirrena and is near the hamlet of Serro. On the other hand, the village of Gesso is about 10 miles northwest of Messina and about 2 miles from Villafranca Tirrena. Gesso sits in a hilly area on the northern side of the Peloritani Mountains, near the Tyrrhenian Sea. Nearby is the village of Salice and the hamlet of Serro. Gesso was also on a strategic trade and military route that linked the Tyrrhenian Sea in the west to the city of Messina in the East.

As for genealogy, to easily keep track of immediate or direct family, both given and surname will be shown in all capitals. Anyone who emigrated to the United States will be highlighted in gray. If families are connected through marriage, it will be noted in a comment. And direct family relationships are defined in terms of kinship from the point of view of my father, Bill Ordille. To preserve direct kinship, I distinguish between ancestor and descendant cousins “removed” by using a “-” or “+” in the notation. If more than one family relationship applies, the closest one will prevail. Also any uncertainty about family connections will be noted in the narrative along with feasible relationships. And all early birth, marriage, and/or death dates will be from the civil records. This will provide consistency to the narrative but may or may not be the same as from other sources. These families have become so intertwined that it is difficult to discuss one without the other as evidenced by marriages among cousins.

The first six generations will be indexed in the Table of Contents and those individuals and families that emigrated from Sicily will be denoted by an asterisk, *. For later generations in a given family, please see the narrative for details. Keep in mind that the information for later generations is a work in progress and may not be as complete as that for the first six generations. For those families not included in the narratives, descendant outlines are provided for reference.

While there will be duplication between this writing and earlier tomes, there also will be new and updated family details. Hopefully this approach will provide a one source depository for all. What is not presented in these writings, are a historical timeline of events and the results of my DNA research. Searching for My Origins will continue to provide background DNA research along with a historical perspective. Please see this tome for details.

Sardinian Proverb : "Sa fortuna andada cum sa cura" -

Basque Proverb: "Guztien adiskide dena, ez da inorena" -

French Proverb : "L'habit ne fait pas le moine" -

Family Heritage

Only one DePietro/DiPietro family clearly emerged from the Gesso civil records and that was the immediate family of Matteo DiPietro (abt 1787). The family was originally from Calvaruso where the spelling of the surname was DiPietro. When his son Pasquale moved to Gesso, the surname spelling became DePietro. But this wasn't the only DePietro/DiPietro family found in the early records. There were the families of Giuseppe DiPietro (bef 1776) and Giovanni DePietro (bef 1829). Both families were found in the Gesso Civil records but a direct connection to the immediate family was not found. Also, at this time, family connections were not found among the other DiPietro families from Calvaruso. An online search shows that the DiPietro surname represents 64 families in six of the nine Sicilian provinces while the DePietro surname only occurs in Northern Italy. It is likely that those families from the same and/or nearby village or hamlet are related. While there are civil records for Gesso and Calvaruso, for many small hamlets it appears that the records were kept in nearby villages.

The Angemi/Ingemi surname is also a fairly rare surname. There are 45 Angemi families in Sicily representing four of the nine provinces while Ingemi represents 88 families in three provinces. But by far the majority of the Angemi families live within the Catania province while the majority of the Ingemi families reside in the Messina province. While the immediate family line descends from Francesco Angemi (1753) three other early families were found in Gesso. They are Giuseppe Angemi (abt 1745), Pietro Angemi (abt 1782) and Giovanni Angemi (bef 1787).

While the Tomasello surname occurrence is too numerous to assume kinship for all, the immediate family of Domenico Tomasello (bef 1794) was found in the Gesso civil records. As for Giacoppo/Giacobbe, only the early family of Antonino Giacobbe (bef 1807) could be traced through the Gesso Civil records. The surname was changed from Giacobbe to Giacoppo on 10 Aug 1897, as noted in the civil records. While not an immediate family line, the Antonino Giacobbe family is connected to my immediate family through seven generations in both Sicily and the United States.

For any reference there is a better chance of defining the male lineage since ancestors and descendants can be traced through his surname. For the female spouse, only ancestral tracking of her surname would be possible if the records are available. And the church is the only place where records dating back before 1800 may be kept. Unfortunately not all church record are available for research. For my immediate DePietro and Angemi families. this would mark the ancestral end of line for Celesti, Carbone, LaRosa, Giacobbe/Giacoppo.

For Giuseppe DiPietro and Giovanni DiPietro, only three and two generations respectively were uncovered from the Gesso civil records. These two families will be profiled in Additional Narrative and Descendant Outlines. Also presented in this section is the family of Antonino Giacobbe. His descendants are intertwined with my various immediate and non immediate families through marriage. As seen from their perspective, a detailed narrative will be presented but individuals will not be indexed in the Table of Contents.

For the remaining seven families, detailed narratives will be presented on the following pages. While the families of Giuseppe Angemi, Pietro Angemi, and Giovanni Angemi have not been been shown to have direct family connections, their link to the immediate families through marriage have been well documented. These links will be noted and referenced where appropriate.

Descendants of Giuseppe Angemi (abt 1745) & Santa Grillo/ Maria Berenato

I. Giuseppe Angemi was born about 1745 in Gesso, Sicilia. He died on 14 Feb 1830 in Gesso. Based on naming conventions, Giovanni and Pietro are assumed sons of Giuseppe. These two families will be presented separately. Also from his daughter Caterina's death record it appears that Giuseppe was married twice. No additional information was found for either Santa Grillo or Maria Berenato. It is assumed that Santa was his first wife while Maria was noted on his death record.
Giuseppe Angemi and Santa Grillo were married. Santa Grillo was born before 1761. Giuseppe Angemi and Santa Grillo had the following child:

Caterina Angemi (abt 1781) & Giuseppe Curcio

A. Caterina Angemi was born about 1781 in Gesso, Sicilia. She died on 16 Sep 1861 in Gesso. Caterina Angemi and Giuseppe Curcio were married. Giuseppe Curcio was born before 1785. He died before 1837. Caterina Angemi and Giuseppe Curcio had the following children:

Antonino Curcio (1805) & Concetta Tomasello

1. Antonino Curcio was born in 1805 in Gesso, Sicilia. He died on 10 Feb 1882 in Gesso. Antonino Curcio and Concetta Tomasello were married on 7 Oct 1837 in Gesso, Sicilia. This marriage links non direct Giuseppe Angemi and Giuseppa Ordile families. Also, Antonino Curcio is one of three brothers that married into the non direct Giuseppa Ordile family. Concetta Tomasello, daughter of Luciano Tomasello and Giuseppa Ordile, was born in 1811 in Gesso, Sicilia. She died on 23 Sep 1858 in Gesso, Sicilia. Antonino Curcio and Concetta Tomasello had the following children:

Giuseppe Curcio (1838) & Angela D'Agostino/Caterina Salvo

a. Giuseppe Curcio was born on 13 Jul 1838 in Gesso, Sicilia. He died on 24 Dec 1906 in Gesso. Giuseppe Curcio and Angela D'Agostino were married on 27 Nov 1874 in Gesso. This marriage also links the non direct families of Giuseppa Ordile and Santa Ordile with the non direct Giuseppe Angemi family. Angela D'Agostino, daughter of Francesco D'Agostino and Maria Berenato, was born on 2 Sep 1845 in Gesso, Sicilia.
Giuseppe Curcio and Caterina Salvo were married on 28 Feb 1879 in Gesso, Sicilia. Caterina's brother Giacomo Salvo married into the non direct Giuseppe Ordile (bef 1765) family. Caterina Salvo, daughter of Francesco Salvo and Giuseppa Cappuccio, was born in 1845 in Gesso.

Caterina Curcio (1840)

b. Caterina Curcio was born on 25 Aug 1840 in Gesso, Sicilia.

Giuseppe Curcio (1843) & Antonino Puleo

MOTHER BADLY INJURED AS SHE ENDEAVORS TO PROTECT LITTLE DAUGHTER

Fearing that the life of her three-year-old daughter was in danger as the child endeavored to cross Egg Harbor road in front of an approaching motor truck, Mrs. Frances Ingemi, 34, of Hammonton, sprang to her rescue and was struck by the car of Dr. J. C. Bitler, yesterday afternoon, near her home, and painfully injured.

In her solicitude for her child the woman was utterly heedless of her own danger and literally ran into the physician's machine.

Dr. Bitler carried Mrs. Ingemi into her home and administered medical attention. Her injuries to the breast and body are painful, but are not thought to be of a serious nature. The impact of the blow damaged the fender of Dr. Bitler's car, the woman being carried on it for thirty feet.

Dr. Bitler was a captain in the Medical Department of the army in France and is now a major in the Medical Reserve. He is known as a careful driver. He was placed under arrest.

STABBED 45 TIMES; ARREST FOR MURDER

HAMMONTON, June 15 (Associated Press).—Joseph Santora, 28 years old, was locked up at the Mays Landing jail charged with the murder of Matteo Ingemi, an elderly man, whose body, bearing 45 stab wounds, was found in a secluded spot here a week ago. Jealousy, the police say, inspired the crime.

Santora was arrested here yesterday on information from Philadelphia that relatives of Mrs. Nean Rizzote of this city had said Santora had confessed the murder to her. She declared, the police say, that Santora had sworn her to secrecy under threat of death. Santora is alleged to have killed Ingemi after he saw him leave Mrs. Rizzote's home where Ingemi had gone to purchase chickens.

Murder Trial Draws Large Crowd

Special to The Inquirer.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 26.—Fully one hundred persons today made the trip to Mays Landing to participate, as witnesses or spectators, in the trial of Joseph Santora, a returned overseas veteran, indicted for the murder of Matteo Ingemi, an aged Italian, whose body was found in August last near the home of Mrs. Nean Rizzotte, a widow. Ingemi's body bore over two score wounds, presumably from a knife or similar weapon. The State will endeavor to prove that Santora attacked Ingemi after the latter had left the Rizzotte home, where he had purchased a dozen young chickens, one of which, crushed to death, was found in a bag under the body of the dead man.

Murderer Flees At Prison Farm

Exemplary Convict Had Served Decade of 30-Year Term

The State-wide search for Joseph Santora, 38 years old, of Hammonton, who escaped from the Bordentown Prison Farm last Sunday, has thus far been fruitless. The convict was serving a term of from 20 to 30 years for murder and was transferred from the prison here to the farm only a short time ago.

Santora, who had completed 10 years of his term, made his escape some time after 7 o'clock. The crime for which he was convicted was the slaying of Mateo Ingemi, 65 years old, also of Hammonton. Santora is said to have admitted the killing.

The victim's body was found along a driveway near the home of Mrs. Nean Rizotti, at Hammonton. At the time of the killing, authorities expressed the belief that Santora was paying attention to the woman, and that Ingemi was a rival.

Police at first expressed the theory that Ingemi was slain with a knife when it was found that there were 47 wounds on the body. It was later learned, however, that these marks were made when the murderer prodded the corpse with the muzzle of the gun used in the killing.

Santora's transfer to the prison farm resulted from his exemplary behavior in the institution here. His good conduct continued at the farm and officials had no suspicion that he planned a getaway. Guards checked on him at 7 o'clock, and an hour later he was missing.

Word of the escape was not made public until yesterday, when authorities throughout the State were asked to join in the hunt. Santora is five feet, nine inches tall, weighs 170 pounds, has black hair, brown eyes and a small scar on his lower lip.

Epilogue

From those who have gone before us ..... to those yet to come

The Road Not Taken

by Robert Frost

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim
Because it was grassy and wanted wear,
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I marked the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I,
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Gesso, Messina, Sicilia

Gesso (Ibiso) is a small village located on the SS113 about 10 miles northwest of Messina and about 2 miles from Villafranca Tirrena. It sits on the northern side of the Peloritani Mountains in a hilly area, about 870 feet above sea level, near the Tyrrhenian Sea. Nearby are the ancient towns of Salice and Serro, and the village of Orto Luizzo. Gesso was also on a strategic trade and military route that linked the Tyrrhenian Sea in the west to the city of Messina in the East. The village's origins date to before the arrival of the Normans.

The English translation of Gesso is chalk, gypsum, or plaster of paris. The reference is to the quarries of calcium sulphate or gypsum that formed the economic basis of the town for centuries. The quarries have been closed since the 1960's.

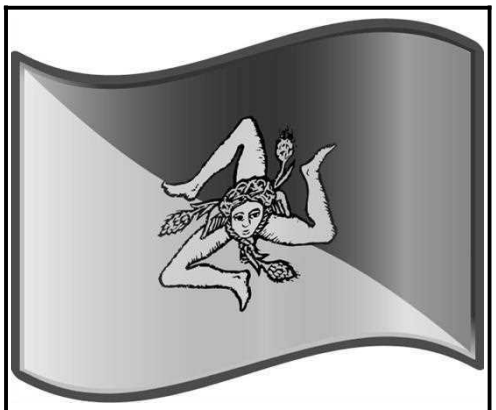
At one time, Gesso was an important center of Greek orthodox worship. It was home to at least three Basilian monasteries: St. Gregory the Great, St. Biagio, and St. Nicholas. All have since been destroyed. The region was known as the Basilian district in the Middle Ages. According to an 18th century monk, Rocco Pirro, in 1063 Count Ruggero d'Altavilla wanted to build a monastery and church dedicated to Saint Gregory on the exact spot where he defeated the Saracens. Subsequently, the monasteries of St. Biagio and St. Nicholas were constructed. While the people of Gesso successfully defended themselves against an attack by the Saracens, in 1674, Gesso suffered greatly from the revolt against the Spanish as the skirmishes neared Messina. By the 1860's while the intention was to unify the territories into a modern nation, Sicily still suffered. The government attempted to balance the budget by increasing taxes, converting the banks into state banks, and placing schools and hospitals under civil administration. There were uprisings due to low wages and unemployment. The primary cause of unrest was the unsatisfactory conditions of the working class.

As the Sicilian economy collapsed, it should be no surprise that emigration began in the 1860's and steadily increased until the early 1900's. Many families emigrated to the United States and settled in the Hammonton, NJ area.

Today, the oldest existing buildings in the village date from the 17th century: the parish church of St Anthony Abbot (inaugurated 1/17/1612), the convent of San Francesco da Paola, the Capuchin monastery and the adjoining Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Flag of Sicily

The symbol was adopted by the island when it was dominated by the Greeks. It is known as the Trinacria which is a Greek word that means three pointed. It recalls the shape of the island which resembles a triangle. The head refers to Greek mythology and is said to be Medusa. The hair on the head is a snake intertwined with stalks of wheat to which three legs, bent at the knees to form a triangle, are attached. The arrangement of the three legs refers to Eastern religious symbolism and represent the three capes of the island of Sicily. There is Peloro (northeast), Passero (south), and Lilibeo (west). These form the three points of a triangle. The three stalks of wheat were added in Roman times when Sicily was a major wheat provider for the Roman empire. Overall, the symbol represents the fertility and prosperity of the region. It is now used in the official Sicilian flag.



Flag of Sicily

The flag is characterized by the presence of the Trinacria in the middle. The flag is bisected diagonally into regions colored red, the color of Palermo, and yellow, the color of Corleone. These are the two cities that started the revolution of the Sicilian Vespers and the flag was used during the medieval revolution of the Vespers.
